

CARBON TENNIS STARS TOO GOOD FOR BASSANO

Bassano Club Wins Only One Match in Tennis Tournament at Carbon

It was a decidedly one-sided tennis tournament at Carbon last Sunday when the Bassano Tennis Club journeyed to the northern town for a return play after entertaining the Carbon club here about three weeks ago.

Out of the nine matches played at Carbon last Sunday, the Bassano club won only one. Credit for the lone victory goes to Bob Donaldson and Wallace Smith, No. 2 doubles team, who were given only an outside chance of turning in a victory. The No. 1 doubles team, Wm. McLaw and M. A. Haynes, were unfortunately in losing their match. With the first set tucked safely away and the match point within his grasp, McLaw struck the net with his racket. The point was awarded to Carbon, and they ran out the set at 6-5. The third set was a hard fought battle, Carbon winning out 7-5 and taking the match.

There was nothing spectacular or brilliant in the style or tennis played by the Carbon club members. They played a good, steady game, being content to get the ball back and wait for a chance to make the placement. The Bassano players lost out through erratic play and lack of control.

Following are the scores in the various matches:

- Men's singles: W. Pozon, Carbon, defeated M. A. Haynes, Bassano, 6-3, 6-3.
- B. Ramsey, Carbon, defeated R. Donaldson, Bassano, 6-4, 6-3.
- Ladies' singles: Miss M. Ramsey, Carbon, defeated Miss Florence Playfair, Bassano, 5-3, 5-3.
- Men's doubles: W. Pozon and H. Edwards, Carbon, defeated Wm. McLaw and M. A. Haynes, Bassano, 6-4, 6-5, 7-5.
- B. Ramsey and W. J. Smith, Bassano, defeated J. Spence and G. Ramsey, Carbon, 6-4, 6-3.
- Ladies' doubles: Miss N. Hemmings and Miss A. Wain, Carbon, defeated Miss Dorothy Flanagan and Miss Phyllis Plummer, Bassano, 6-3, 6-4.
- Mixed doubles: B. Ramsey and Miss M. Ramsey, Carbon, defeated J. W. Smith, Carbon, and Miss Phyllis Plummer, Bassano, 6-2, 6-2.

TAIT WHITE NEW GOLF CHAMPION

Tait White, Brooks golfer, won the new Alberta districts golf champion. Playing a steady game in the finals on the Banff Springs Hotel course last Sunday, he defeated L. Boyzwan, of Stavelay, 3 up and two to go. White finished the first 18 holes of the final 36 holes up, then in the afternoon round after Boyzwan had evened the score. White stepped out to win. In the last nine holes of the morning play White registered six putts and twice held the rim of the cup for birdies. In the semi-finals Saturday afternoon eliminated D. Gossart of Hanna, one up, and Wade defeated J. A. Mackay of Medicine Hat, 2 and 2.

Mr. White's Bassano friends congratulate him on his victory, which was not unexpected here.

ORPHEUM THEATRE

FRIDAY AND SATURDAY THIS WEEK

"THE GOOD COMPANIONS"

You'll enjoy this wonderful entertainment. Join these happy entertainers as they go singing and dancing along the happy highway that leads to romance and happiness with you. Live this wonderful story. Leave all care behind as you travel the open highway with these gay companions.

FRIDAY AND SATURDAY NEXT WEEK

NORMA SHEARER AND CLARK GABLE IN

"STRANGE INTERLUDE"

Husband, friend, lover... these three men swayed her life! The producers of "Grand Hotel" now present a super-talike.

HOLIDAY MONDAY

Next Monday, Sept. 4, is Labor Day, and a public holiday. The banks, post office, and stores will be closed.

GEM NEWS

QIM, Aug. 30.—The second crop of alfalfa has been cut and stacked, and many of the farmers in the colony plan to cut a third crop during the season. Thrashing, due to commence on Wednesday, will be delayed owing to heavy rains which fell early Wednesday morning.

Mrs. Roy Robson, of Cravling Valley, has many friends in the colony who are pleased to know she has recovered from her recent illness, and will be able to return to her home in the near future.

James Sparks Jr., who has been working in the Okotoks district all summer, was a Sunday visitor at his home, motoring from Okotoks with his uncle, J. Emale, and returning there, making the double journey in one day.

M. Atkins, of Victoria, B. C., is an expected visitor in the colony during the coming week-end.

Gen. consolidated school reopened after the summer vacation on Tuesday, Sept. 5. The last year's staff of teachers has been re-appointed for the 1934-35 school year. The annual school fair is scheduled to take place on Friday, Sept. 8.

The extra school room in course of erection by H. A. Holmes, of Bassano, will be finished in a few days' time, perhaps in time for the re-opening after the holidays.

Mr. and Mrs. Ed Jahraus made a business trip to Biadlos, Bert Keating accompanied them, paying a visit to Mr. and Mrs. Hagins, of that town.

Mr. and Mrs. Steinhilber were recent Monday visitors in the colony, spending the day at Monksville.

Mrs. J. Spark is enjoying a visit from her father, Mr. Emale, of Brooks.

Dean Wright is helping with work on his uncle's, J. George's farm.

Mrs. Ralph Robson entertained a number of ladies on Thursday afternoon.

A social hour over the tea-cups was enjoyed by all her guests.

Mrs. Wright and family are planning to spend the winter in Okotoks. They are on a dry farm in the Hutton district.

Mr. McCormick was a Tuesday visitor at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ed Jahraus.

Mrs. Hefflebaum was a recent visitor in the colony, visiting with Mrs. C. Portner for several days.

Mr. and Mrs. Lees, from North Edmonton, were in the colony during the past three weeks, visiting the two sons in the colony.

Woody Marques and Fred Galanau left for Portland, Oregon, a few days ago. W. Marques plans to remain there permanently, and F. Galanau is attending a rodeo in that state.

Mr. B. Selfridge entertained a number of ladies to afternoon tea on Wednesday last. Mesdames A. P. Miller, W. Pollock, L. Lawrie and T. Wade were among the guests.

Winthrop, which futures closed on Wednesday at Oct. 7 1/4, Dec. 8 1/4, May 15 1/4. Prices are reported down about half a cent on Thursday's market.

Wheat Agreement Reached By Exporting and Importing Nations

OTTAWA, Aug. 29.—A conference with representatives of the grain governments, having in view the world wheat agreement and any legislation to give effect to it, will be announced after the return of Prime Minister R. B. Bennett.

The latest features of this agreement are that it allows a maximum export of 500,000 bushels of wheat in the present crop year. The big exporters, a figure roughly equal to European demand, call for a 15 per cent reduction in the four, Canada, Australia, Argentina, and the United States, in the crop year 1934-35. It provides the big exporters will not increase their own production, but as the contrary will stimulate consumption.

Most important of all the clauses, however, is that by which the importers undertake to revise their customs duties on wheat downward when the international price of wheat reaches, and maintains for four months, a level of $2.05 cents per bushel. This gold price, on the basis that the conference is at present between $2 and $4 cents.

The $2.05 cents a bushel roughly amounts to 35 cents a bushel in Canadian funds, at today's rate of exchange. In effect, the international gold price of wheat must increase about 14 per cent before the duty-reducing clause becomes operative.

The export maximum provision is, of course, of immediate importance. It is not so regarding the threat of dumping or price cutting because all the big exporters will have their own quota to fulfill. The exact figure for each has not been worked out but Canada's share will roughly be probably the same as she would export anyway. The difference is that the market is secure. Canada's share will probably be in the neighborhood of 200 million bushels.

Reduction of duty on wheat acreage in Canada will necessitate a selection of about four million acres in the area sown to wheat in the prairie provinces in the last season.

Legislation will be required, but as the treaty will become operative only in respect of next year's crop, there is no urgency for hurried action. It would be to determine the precise character of the legislative provisions which the conference is necessary.

The presumption is that there will be concurrent enactments by parliament and by the legislatures of the farmer may have either to reduce the acreage sown to wheat or else keep at home 35 or 15 per cent of his crop to be denatured or used for feed.

One consequence of the agreement, as foreseen here, is to put the United States out of the export market.

Those who have been in close touch with the conference in London, minimize any idea of compulsion on the individual. There will be no resort to the tariff. The agreement calls for voluntary co-operation based on good will. If its spirit is not observed, then the arrangement will be barren of benefit.

The whole idea, it is said, is that the expedient is tentative for two years and so designed to remove the present glut as to require prices not to place production and consumption in profitable relationship.

How to go about it, what legislation is necessary and what regulations under such legislation are required, will be for the conference of interested parties to determine.

MORE RAIN STOPS HARVEST WORK

Stopped by rainfall Wednesday and Thursday of this week, harvest work is now at a standstill, and farmers, binders and threshing machines are standing idle in the fields.

The rain has not been heavy, consisting of a drizzle, with occasional heavier showers.

Farmers are hoping for a couple of weeks' warm weather so that they can get the harvest of the crop, but at present there is no sign of a let-up.

The rain will be of some benefit to crops, and will give the wheat situation to some extent.

SPEED LIMIT SIGN ARE BEING ERASED BY DOWN

Two signs to regulate motor traffic were erected last Saturday by the town council. At the end of the C.P.R. D.N.R. property and at the northwest corner of town, speed limit signs advising motorists the speed limit in town is 20 miles per hour were set up. A "Danger" sign was also erected a short distance back of the intersection at the town's corner.

It has been noticed that many cars are taking the town limits travelling at a high rate of speed, and the chief of the signs is to reduce the speed of cars so that there will be less danger of an accident.

TREES IN MUNICIPAL NURSERY ARE DOING VERY WELL

Good results are being obtained in the first year's operation of the local board of trade's nursery. The hundreds of little spruce trees set out in the spring are coming along splendidly, although there are a few losses.

Geo. Warren, chairman of the tree planting committee, who has charge of the nursery, reports a very good season, with an ample water supply for the young trees and good growing season. Spruce trees are slow growing, but they are making good progress and will be good trees in a few years.

Hundreds of young poplar seedlings were started in the nursery this summer from seed scattered by the wind. These are being cared for and will be used next season.

OBITUARY

McNUTT
The death of Mrs. Lily McNutt, wife of George McNutt, occurred at her home in Bassano, Saturday, Aug. 26, at 5 p.m. Deceased had been confined to her bed for several months prior to death.

She is survived by her husband, two children, Margaret, aged 3 years and Jean, aged six months, and also by her parents who reside in London, England.

HUSSAR NEWS

HUSSAR, Aug. 28.—The August meeting of the W. I. was held at the home of Mrs. J. V. Elliott, and was devoted mainly to a discussion of farming. The roll call—was followed by the report on gardening by gardener Hilda Mrs. T. Anthony had the paper on "Agriculture," and she gave the history of wheat raising from the time of the early settlers in Canada, with mention of the grasshoppers and other pests, till the present time. Part of the program of the July meeting was held over; a paper explaining the significance of the July 1st celebration, prepared by Mrs. Elliott, and read by Mrs. Montgomery, secretary-protem. Mrs. Ted Clark, accompanied by Miss Margaret Bell in the piano, delighted the ladies with a violin solo. Mrs. Stelling gave an interesting and instructive paper on the "Home and School" movement, explaining its great value to community teaching, drawing teachers and parents together in an effort to better school conditions. Miss Margaret Bell pleased the audience with a piano solo. An interesting discussion over the annual conference followed, in which suggestions for the improvement of the handicraft center, and leading places, Mesdames D. L. Montgomery and H. E. Rollason were appointed to assist Mrs. Bell in preparing a more extensive class in the handicraft center to the other W. I. of the constituency for their approval. It was decided to confer with the other branches in this vicinity as to demonstration that may meet with the approval of them all, so that the government can afford to send a demonstrator. Mesdames W. G. Nelson and A. Andersen were asked to work with the secretary in this matter, as soon as the annual report comes out. Seventeen members and one visitor were present. After the close of the meeting a delicious lunch was served, and a social hour passed. The next meeting will be at the home of Mrs. J. Houghton.

About twenty minutes before the meeting was the house, Mrs. J. Elliott, had the misfortune to fall down the cellar stairs. She suffered an injury to her left wrist, bruising her right elbow, and receiving a general shake-up. Mr. Elliott took her to Bassano to see the doctor, and Mrs. Dussan accompanied them. Mrs. W. G. Nelson received the news of her father's death from pneumonia, on Thursday.

Miss Helen Severns arrived on Monday to be with her sister for a few days.

Mrs. L. F. Snyder met her son in Drumheller on Monday.

Miss Benson Johnson is the guest of Margaret Bell, arriving here on Monday.

NEW HIGH JUMP RECORD

Rolla G. Kripp, T. H. Hunter's high jumping horse, set a new high jump record for eastern Canada last week when he jumped 7 ft. 4 1/2 inches at the Fort William exhibition. The horse was ridden by Dick Douglas, of Winnipeg. Rolla G. Kripp's previous record was 7 ft. 1 1/2 inches, registered at the Calgary horse show three years ago.

The world's record for high jumping horses is still held by the late Irish stallion with a mark of 8 ft. 1 1/2 inch at New Westminster, B. C., September 12, 1925.

WESTERN ALL STARS DEFEAT EASTERN TEAM

Two picked teams from the clubs in the irrigation league played a game on Saturday in Saturday afternoon, the Westerners defeating the Easterners 15-7. The Westerners were made up of seven players from Rosemary, one from Bassano and one from Duthen. The Easterners were picked from Patricia, Brooks, and Rainier.

COUNTNESS NEWS

COUNTNESS, Aug. 30.—Mr. Clyna's brother, who has been here visiting, is on his way to return here.

Mr. and Mrs. Gamble and the girls spent a couple of days in Calgary last week.

Loralee Parent has returned from Calgary where she spent her summer holidays.

Mesdames D. Ferguson, H. Ferguson, and children visited with Mrs. May Burrows one afternoon last week.

Mr. H. Cowan, Alice and Knott Cowan and May Hield were in Calgary one day last week.

Mrs. Mack Ferguson has been on the lake for a few days.

Billie is moving his sheep back to Arrowwood.

A. Mallick, Mrs. L. B. Jones and Mrs. Anderson went to the river on Sunday for choke cheries.

Mrs. P. Robinson and Ellen spent Sunday afternoon at the Slus home.

Mrs. D. B. Belmont was organized a C.G.I.L. Club for the Countess girls.

The Countess children are making ready for the school fair in Glen next week.

Mrs. McRoberts, of Calgary, will teach the Countess school this year.

R. A. TRAVIS

Insurance of All Kinds

Loans and Collections

THREE CLUBS TO BATTLE FOR TENNIS TROPHY

Labor Day Tournament Opens on Saturday—Brooks-Brooks, Glen-chen and Bassano Competing

Play in the inter-town tennis tournament between the clubs of Glen-chen, Brooks, and Bassano is scheduled to commence Saturday morning, Sept. 3, on the hard clay courts of the Bassano tennis club. This will be the third annual tournament of the kind, and the winner will hold the silver cup for the next twelve months. Bassano has won the trophy twice. It was first put up for play, last year, by Glen-chen. The play-off was never made, so the cup has been retained by the Bassano club.

The tournament will be run off Saturday, Sunday, and Monday, with first games to start at 10 a.m. Saturday. Brooks will oppose Bassano in the first draw, the matches arranged being as follows: Ladies' singles: Mrs. H. C. Brown, Brooks, vs. Miss G. Brown, Bassano; Miss V. Bramley, Brooks, vs. Miss Phyllis Plummer, Bassano; Men's singles: Wm. McLaw, Brooks, vs. M. A. Haynes, Bassano.

While tennis in all three towns has not been so popular this year, there is a strong hope that the past couple of weeks, and it is expected that all matches will be keenly contested.

SCHOOL TO OPEN FRIDAY MORNING

The school bell will ring Friday morning, Sept. 1, bringing an end to summer school vacation. Children are gathering up their school books in preparation of their return to school, and teachers are busy to return to their duties.

Bassano high school will not open until Tuesday, Sept. 5. Monday is Labor Day, and a holiday.

Summer school opening and will be the same as last term.

THE PRILLS

ELINORE BARRY

SEVENTEENTH INSTALLMENT

A little later they dismounted and sat down on a slope overlooking the valley to eat the package of sandwiches and fruit Joyce had brought. He finally stretched out on the ground and put his head in her lap. Joyce had just stroked back a lock of hair from his forehead, thinking absently that Neil ought to be doing something about the increasing thinness of his hair, when the thud of a horse's hoofs in the distance caught her ear. She stiffened and glanced up with an apprehensive fear clutching at her heart and stopping his best for a moment.

There, in an opening between clumps of oak trees about sixty yards away, on the track they had just left, rode Robert! Ainsworth! He did not see her at first. Then his light roving glance turned to the couple on the ground. His eyes met Neil's and a quick smile of recognition spread over his face. Then he looked dropped over the figure of Neil lying with his head in her lap. A quizzical shade passed over his face.

"Hello, Joyce!" he shouted. His horse leaped forward and the top of his head, and they galloped up the slope. Before Neil could stumle to his feet, Ainsworth was drawing her nearly upon them.

"This peculiar situation," he said easily, "demands a galloping retreat on my part, but I'm too inquisitive to be so gallant. I prefer to advance on a desecrated horse to inquire!"

Joyce's self-possession left her so briefly. She stared at him, the two men, miserably aware that they were both looking to her for explanation, and even more miserably aware that she knew not how to begin.

BASSANO LODGE NO. 45, ANCIENT FREE AND ACCEPTED MASONS
Next second Thursday of the month
Dining brethren cordially welcome
Arthur G. BOWEN
Worshipful Master
H. H. BEMMER, Secretary

WALTER K. WEBB
DARTMOUTH SOLICITOR
NOTARY PUBLIC
Phones: Office 38; Residence 44
BASSANO - ALBERTA

B. E. BARLOW
VETERINARY SURGEON
M. S. A. T. C.
M. V. A. Alberta
Government Official Veterinarian
PHONE 29 BASSANO

DR. W. F. KEITH
Dentist
JOHNSTON BLOCK
Bassano - Alberta

WILLIAM MC LAWS
Barrister - Solicitor - Notary
BASSANO - ALBERTA
Phones: Office 6, Residence 138

Dr. A. G. Scott
M. B. L. M. D. C. C.
PHYSICIAN - SURGEON
Telephones
Office 37 - Residence 131

A. T. CONNOLLY
Registered Optometrist

Broken lenses replaced from prescription or plates. Absolute satisfaction guaranteed. Quick service.
BASSANO, ALBERTA

HARRY HOLMES
CARPENTER AND BUILDER
Estimates given on all work.
If you are in need of building or carpenter work of any kind,
PHONE 16

W. S. PLAYFAIR
FERN - AUTO LIVERY - DRAYING
Agency for
Galt Coal
PHONE 26 Opposite Depot

Shoe and Harness Repairing
FIRST CLASS WORK
REASONABLE PRICES
HONG LEE

Neil was the first to come to Joyce's rescue. "I beg your pardon," he said, courteously, "you seem to know my wife."

The quizzical smile deepened on Robert's face. "No, I seem rather to have made a mistake—" he began. A new, almost insolent note in his voice whipped Joyce into anger. All at once she knew what her name must be. It mattered little to her what the outcome of this meeting was; she was determined not to be led into further deceptions.

"No mistake at all," he said quietly. "Neil, he's lying if he says he doesn't know me."

She looked from one to the other of the men. Neil's expression was that of the same partly repressed heart that he had shown when Malinda's name had been mentioned. He knew at once that he thought Robert had taken Malinda's place in Frill's life, but that his value of honesty and dignity was holding him in check. Neil's immediate conscious reaction to this situation did not surprise her; he was showing no reversal of his personality.

Robert, however, had suddenly become a stranger to her. Was this her "perfect companion," was this the man whose subtlety and sympathy she had so deliciously counted on? He sat on his horse coolly and looked down on them with an expression of amused cynicism. If this attitude were a cloak for his hurt feelings, Joyce thought swiftly, it was a less lovely one than Neil's.

"Please, please, don't begin to fight."

These valuations passed through Joyce's mind in one galloping second, while she stood there helplessly wondering where to begin.

"May I have the pleasure of meeting your husband?" Robert asked, smiling.

Joyce looked at him. "Get off your horse, please," she answered, "there is a lot to be straightened out here. I'll take some time..."

Robert Ainsworth, this is Neil Packard, my husband..."

The men acknowledged the introduction. Neil curtly, Robert with the same hard amusement that so offended Joyce.

"Charmed," said Ainsworth lightly.

"Oh, don't talk that way!" Joyce cried. "I don't know you at all in this mood—you're making it terribly hard for me..."

Robert threw back his head and laughed. "Think, Joyce, what a lot I'm going to learn from this meeting! Think of the value of it all to a novelist! Why, I wouldn't be missing it for anything! I only wish I had the pen of an Elmore Glegg to write it up adequately..."

Neil drew forward. "I don't think my wife and I have time to stop and listen to that sort of faint drivel from you," he began hotly, when Joyce interposed.

"Oh, this is all so fantastic! Please please don't begin a fight over it, when neither of you really knows a bit what it's all about..." Neil, I've been trying to make up my mind to tell you—Robert, there's a good deal due to you, too! I hadn't expected to tell you both at once, but since it's happened this way, for heaven's sake don't make it so difficult for me! I want to tell both of you the truth!"

She turned to her husband, "Neil, you never heard of Joyce Abbott, did you?"

"You don't mean Joyce Abbott, do you?"

"No, no, I don't..."

"Tell me this, Neil, what was my name before you married her?"

"Don't look at me as if I were crazy! What was my name before you married her?"

"Why, Frills, this is nonsense! Don't you know your own name?"

Was Florence Hilton, of course. What's that got to do with it?

"Oh, will you please let me tell you? Sit down, both of you, this is going to take a long time. Please don't begin by thinking I'm crazy. You've both heard of amnesia, victim, of course? Did you know a girl without a past, without a life?"

"You've got to help me tell this story, Neil, because I remember nothing before the morning after the fire. You're both staring at her dumbfounded. 'You're not serious, Frills? Why—what—what?'"

Robert Ainsworth said, "Lord! Tell us what you're driving at, Joyce."

Joyce suddenly found it possible to talk to these two men. It was as if her mind had for some time been preparing the story it had to tell, so that the words came swiftly, so earnestly, dramatically. She told them of being born Joyce Ashton, of her early life in New England, of her aunt and uncle, of her work in Philadelphia and then of her start toward the coast in search of adventure.

"I remember getting into the taxi cab in Chicago in the snow—that sort of light snow when the streets still aren't quite wet, but the dirt makes them sticky. The taxi skidded violently—there was a crash—"

"Please, please, don't begin to fight."

These valuations passed through Joyce's mind in one galloping second, while she stood there helplessly wondering where to begin.

"May I have the pleasure of meeting your husband?" Robert asked, smiling.

Joyce looked at him. "Get off your horse, please," she answered, "there is a lot to be straightened out here. I'll take some time..."

Robert Ainsworth, this is Neil Packard, my husband..."

The men acknowledged the introduction. Neil curtly, Robert with the same hard amusement that so offended Joyce.

"Charmed," said Ainsworth lightly.

"Oh, don't talk that way!" Joyce cried. "I don't know you at all in this mood—you're making it terribly hard for me..."

Robert threw back his head and laughed. "Think, Joyce, what a lot I'm going to learn from this meeting! Think of the value of it all to a novelist! Why, I wouldn't be missing it for anything! I only wish I had the pen of an Elmore Glegg to write it up adequately..."

Neil drew forward. "I don't think my wife and I have time to stop and listen to that sort of faint drivel from you," he began hotly, when Joyce interposed.

"Oh, this is all so fantastic! Please please don't begin a fight over it, when neither of you really knows a bit what it's all about..." Neil, I've been trying to make up my mind to tell you—Robert, there's a good deal due to you, too! I hadn't expected to tell you both at once, but since it's happened this way, for heaven's sake don't make it so difficult for me! I want to tell both of you the truth!"

She turned to her husband, "Neil, you never heard of Joyce Abbott, did you?"

"You don't mean Joyce Abbott, do you?"

"No, no, I don't..."

"Tell me this, Neil, what was my name before you married her?"

"Don't look at me as if I were crazy! What was my name before you married her?"

"That's what I've got to find out, Neil. It's been driving me nearly crazy, and now at last I've had the chance to tell the truth, as far as I know it. Will you tell me, Neil, how you met Frills and all that?"

"Why, at Joe and Maisie Turner's, of course! Don't you really remember, Frills—er, I mean Joyce? Gosh, this gets my goat, I feel as though we'd all gone absolutely nuts!"

"I felt that way when I first woke up and found myself Mrs. Packard," she said gently, "but I've lived with the idea so long that I've gotten a bit used to it. Tell me about the Turners."

"Why, it was their car that ran into your taxi in Chicago, Joe was running for some political office at the time, and he was very anxious to keep out of the papers in any way that might bring him any unpleasant publicity, so he gave the police a tip. I suppose, and got them to allow you to be taken to his house instead of to a hospital. You were unconscious a couple of days, and when you woke up you were in a dazed condition. I remember Maisie saying they thought you never would say a word, and how queer it made them feel, having some one lying there conscious, but just looking at the walls without saying anything."

"Fancy! That was me, and I don't remember any more about it than if it had never happened!"

"Joe and Maisie had a time finding out who you were. The doctor said just to leave you alone and you'd come around all right. And, sure enough, that was what happened, or what everybody thought had happened."

"The Turners were lively, entertained a lot, plenty of money and all that, and as soon as you were well they introduced you around to their friends. You made a hit with everyone, and that tickled them. My cousin Lawton Packard's wife was a great friend of Maisie, and I'd met her and Joe a number of times in Manhattan, and they'd always told me to look them up if I was ever in Chicago. It struck me to do it one night. I called them up and in a few days I was in Chicago. I found them just as I'd expected, throwing out a lot of dark hints about a swell girl who was staying with them. I went and it was my first—Florence Hilton was the name. I took a terrible tumble, and in a couple of weeks we were engaged."

"I kept straight out the business in Chicago, and finally I remember now that it was your own suggestion—we were married right away, before we left town, and you came back as Mrs. Neil Packard!"

"Joyce had had hell-spellbound by Neil's recital. It was all so queer and unreal, and she felt her head swimming by the strangeness of it. 'Didn't you ask me anything about who I was, and all that, when you asked to marry me? How did I act? Was I like the Frills I've heard about, or more like Joyce?'"

"Well, you see, everyone treated you with kid gloves, so to speak, about this accident," said Neil. "It was understood that you'd had a great trip. Haven't I been too careless, too treacherous generally, that the Frills you married?"

"Frills? Frills, all right, and you had me guessing, too. But of course Frills wasn't wild and reckless when I married her—you say, I don't say so, I did marry her!"

"That's what I've got to find out, Neil. It's been driving me nearly crazy, and now at last I've had the chance to tell the truth, as far as I know it. Will you tell me, Neil, how you met Frills and all that?"

"Why, at Joe and Maisie Turner's, of course! Don't you really remember, Frills—er, I mean Joyce? Gosh, this gets my goat, I feel as though we'd all gone absolutely nuts!"

"I felt that way when I first woke up and found myself Mrs. Packard," she said gently, "but I've lived with the idea so long that I've gotten a bit used to it. Tell me about the Turners."

"Why, it was their car that ran into your taxi in Chicago, Joe was running for some political office at the time, and he was very anxious to keep out of the papers in any way that might bring him any unpleasant publicity, so he gave the police a tip. I suppose, and got them to allow you to be taken to his house instead of to a hospital. You were unconscious a couple of days, and when you woke up you were in a dazed condition. I remember Maisie saying they thought you never would say a word, and how queer it made them feel, having some one lying there conscious, but just looking at the walls without saying anything."

"Fancy! That was me, and I don't remember any more about it than if it had never happened!"

"Joe and Maisie had a time finding out who you were. The doctor said just to leave you alone and you'd come around all right. And, sure enough, that was what happened, or what everybody thought had happened."

"The Turners were lively, entertained a lot, plenty of money and all that, and as soon as you were well they introduced you around to their friends. You made a hit with everyone, and that tickled them. My cousin Lawton Packard's wife was a great friend of Maisie, and I'd met her and Joe a number of times in Manhattan, and they'd always told me to look them up if I was ever in Chicago. It struck me to do it one night. I called them up and in a few days I was in Chicago. I found them just as I'd expected, throwing out a lot of dark hints about a swell girl who was staying with them. I went and it was my first—Florence Hilton was the name. I took a terrible tumble, and in a couple of weeks we were engaged."

"I kept straight out the business in Chicago, and finally I remember now that it was your own suggestion—we were married right away, before we left town, and you came back as Mrs. Neil Packard!"

"Joyce had had hell-spellbound by Neil's recital. It was all so queer and unreal, and she felt her head swimming by the strangeness of it. 'Didn't you ask me anything about who I was, and all that, when you asked to marry me? How did I act? Was I like the Frills I've heard about, or more like Joyce?'"

"Well, you see, everyone treated you with kid gloves, so to speak, about this accident," said Neil. "It was understood that you'd had a great trip. Haven't I been too careless, too treacherous generally, that the Frills you married?"

"That's what I've got to find out, Neil. It's been driving me nearly crazy, and now at last I've had the chance to tell the truth, as far as I know it. Will you tell me, Neil, how you met Frills and all that?"

"Why, at Joe and Maisie Turner's, of course! Don't you really remember, Frills—er, I mean Joyce? Gosh, this gets my goat, I feel as though we'd all gone absolutely nuts!"

"I felt that way when I first woke up and found myself Mrs. Packard," she said gently, "but I've lived with the idea so long that I've gotten a bit used to it. Tell me about the Turners."

"Why, it was their car that ran into your taxi in Chicago, Joe was running for some political office at the time, and he was very anxious to keep out of the papers in any way that might bring him any unpleasant publicity, so he gave the police a tip. I suppose, and got them to allow you to be taken to his house instead of to a hospital. You were unconscious a couple of days, and when you woke up you were in a dazed condition. I remember Maisie saying they thought you never would say a word, and how queer it made them feel, having some one lying there conscious, but just looking at the walls without saying anything."

"Fancy! That was me, and I don't remember any more about it than if it had never happened!"

"Joe and Maisie had a time finding out who you were. The doctor said just to leave you alone and you'd come around all right. And, sure enough, that was what happened, or what everybody thought had happened."

"The Turners were lively, entertained a lot, plenty of money and all that, and as soon as you were well they introduced you around to their friends. You made a hit with everyone, and that tickled them. My cousin Lawton Packard's wife was a great friend of Maisie, and I'd met her and Joe a number of times in Manhattan, and they'd always told me to look them up if I was ever in Chicago. It struck me to do it one night. I called them up and in a few days I was in Chicago. I found them just as I'd expected, throwing out a lot of dark hints about a swell girl who was staying with them. I went and it was my first—Florence Hilton was the name. I took a terrible tumble, and in a couple of weeks we were engaged."

"I kept straight out the business in Chicago, and finally I remember now that it was your own suggestion—we were married right away, before we left town, and you came back as Mrs. Neil Packard!"

"Joyce had had hell-spellbound by Neil's recital. It was all so queer and unreal, and she felt her head swimming by the strangeness of it. 'Didn't you ask me anything about who I was, and all that, when you asked to marry me? How did I act? Was I like the Frills I've heard about, or more like Joyce?'"

"Well, you see, everyone treated you with kid gloves, so to speak, about this accident," said Neil. "It was understood that you'd had a great trip. Haven't I been too careless, too treacherous generally, that the Frills you married?"

"Frills? Frills, all right, and you had me guessing, too. But of course Frills wasn't wild and reckless when I married her—you say, I don't say so, I did marry her!"

"That's what I've got to find out, Neil. It's been driving me nearly crazy, and now at last I've had the chance to tell the truth, as far as I know it. Will you tell me, Neil, how you met Frills and all that?"

"Why, at Joe and Maisie Turner's, of course! Don't you really remember, Frills—er, I mean Joyce? Gosh, this gets my goat, I feel as though we'd all gone absolutely nuts!"

"I felt that way when I first woke up and found myself Mrs. Packard," she said gently, "but I've lived with the idea so long that I've gotten a bit used to it. Tell me about the Turners."

"Why, it was their car that ran into your taxi in Chicago, Joe was running for some political office at the time, and he was very anxious to keep out of the papers in any way that might bring him any unpleasant publicity, so he gave the police a tip. I suppose, and got them to allow you to be taken to his house instead of to a hospital. You were unconscious a couple of days, and when you woke up you were in a dazed condition. I remember Maisie saying they thought you never would say a word, and how queer it made them feel, having some one lying there conscious, but just looking at the walls without saying anything."

"Fancy! That was me, and I don't remember any more about it than if it had never happened!"

"Joe and Maisie had a time finding out who you were. The doctor said just to leave you alone and you'd come around all right. And, sure enough, that was what happened, or what everybody thought had happened."

"The Turners were lively, entertained a lot, plenty of money and all that, and as soon as you were well they introduced you around to their friends. You made a hit with everyone, and that tickled them. My cousin Lawton Packard's wife was a great friend of Maisie, and I'd met her and Joe a number of times in Manhattan, and they'd always told me to look them up if I was ever in Chicago. It struck me to do it one night. I called them up and in a few days I was in Chicago. I found them just as I'd expected, throwing out a lot of dark hints about a swell girl who was staying with them. I went and it was my first—Florence Hilton was the name. I took a terrible tumble, and in a couple of weeks we were engaged."

"I kept straight out the business in Chicago, and finally I remember now that it was your own suggestion—we were married right away, before we left town, and you came back as Mrs. Neil Packard!"

"Joyce had had hell-spellbound by Neil's recital. It was all so queer and unreal, and she felt her head swimming by the strangeness of it. 'Didn't you ask me anything about who I was, and all that, when you asked to marry me? How did I act? Was I like the Frills I've heard about, or more like Joyce?'"

"Well, you see, everyone treated you with kid gloves, so to speak, about this accident," said Neil. "It was understood that you'd had a great trip. Haven't I been too careless, too treacherous generally, that the Frills you married?"

"Frills? Frills, all right, and you had me guessing, too. But of course Frills wasn't wild and reckless when I married her—you say, I don't say so, I did marry her!"

"That's what I've got to find out, Neil. It's been driving me nearly crazy, and now at last I've had the chance to tell the truth, as far as I know it. Will you tell me, Neil, how you met Frills and all that?"

"Why, at Joe and Maisie Turner's, of course! Don't you really remember, Frills—er, I mean Joyce? Gosh, this gets my goat, I feel as though we'd all gone absolutely nuts!"

"I felt that way when I first woke up and found myself Mrs. Packard," she said gently, "but I've lived with the idea so long that I've gotten a bit used to it. Tell me about the Turners."

"That's what I've got to find out, Neil. It's been driving me nearly crazy, and now at last I've had the chance to tell the truth, as far as I know it. Will you tell me, Neil, how you met Frills and all that?"

"Why, at Joe and Maisie Turner's, of course! Don't you really remember, Frills—er, I mean Joyce? Gosh, this gets my goat, I feel as though we'd all gone absolutely nuts!"

"I felt that way when I first woke up and found myself Mrs. Packard," she said gently, "but I've lived with the idea so long that I've gotten a bit used to it. Tell me about the Turners."

"Why, it was their car that ran into your taxi in Chicago, Joe was running for some political office at the time, and he was very anxious to keep out of the papers in any way that might bring him any unpleasant publicity, so he gave the police a tip. I suppose, and got them to allow you to be taken to his house instead of to a hospital. You were unconscious a couple of days, and when you woke up you were in a dazed condition. I remember Maisie saying they thought you never would say a word, and how queer it made them feel, having some one lying there conscious, but just looking at the walls without saying anything."

"Fancy! That was me, and I don't remember any more about it than if it had never happened!"

"Joe and Maisie had a time finding out who you were. The doctor said just to leave you alone and you'd come around all right. And, sure enough, that was what happened, or what everybody thought had happened."

"The Turners were lively, entertained a lot, plenty of money and all that, and as soon as you were well they introduced you around to their friends. You made a hit with everyone, and that tickled them. My cousin Lawton Packard's wife was a great friend of Maisie, and I'd met her and Joe a number of times in Manhattan, and they'd always told me to look them up if I was ever in Chicago. It struck me to do it one night. I called them up and in a few days I was in Chicago. I found them just as I'd expected, throwing out a lot of dark hints about a swell girl who was staying with them. I went and it was my first—Florence Hilton was the name. I took a terrible tumble, and in a couple of weeks we were engaged."

"I kept straight out the business in Chicago, and finally I remember now that it was your own suggestion—we were married right away, before we left town, and you came back as Mrs. Neil Packard!"

"Joyce had had hell-spellbound by Neil's recital. It was all so queer and unreal, and she felt her head swimming by the strangeness of it. 'Didn't you ask me anything about who I was, and all that, when you asked to marry me? How did I act? Was I like the Frills I've heard about, or more like Joyce?'"

"Well, you see, everyone treated you with kid gloves, so to speak, about this accident," said Neil. "It was understood that you'd had a great trip. Haven't I been too careless, too treacherous generally, that the Frills you married?"

"Frills? Frills, all right, and you had me guessing, too. But of course Frills wasn't wild and reckless when I married her—you say, I don't say so, I did marry her!"

"That's what I've got to find out, Neil. It's been driving me nearly crazy, and now at last I've had the chance to tell the truth, as far as I know it. Will you tell me, Neil, how you met Frills and all that?"

"Why, at Joe and Maisie Turner's, of course! Don't you really remember, Frills—er, I mean Joyce? Gosh, this gets my goat, I feel as though we'd all gone absolutely nuts!"

"I felt that way when I first woke up and found myself Mrs. Packard," she said gently, "but I've lived with the idea so long that I've gotten a bit used to it. Tell me about the Turners."

"Why, it was their car that ran into your taxi in Chicago, Joe was running for some political office at the time, and he was very anxious to keep out of the papers in any way that might bring him any unpleasant publicity, so he gave the police a tip. I suppose, and got them to allow you to be taken to his house instead of to a hospital. You were unconscious a couple of days, and when you woke up you were in a dazed condition. I remember Maisie saying they thought you never would say a word, and how queer it made them feel, having some one lying there conscious, but just looking at the walls without saying anything."

"Fancy! That was me, and I don't remember any more about it than if it had never happened!"

"Joe and Maisie had a time finding out who you were. The doctor said just to leave you alone and you'd come around all right. And, sure enough, that was what happened, or what everybody thought had happened."

"The Turners were lively, entertained a lot, plenty of money and all that, and as soon as you were well they introduced you around to their friends. You made a hit with everyone, and that tickled them. My cousin Lawton Packard's wife was a great friend of Maisie, and I'd met her and Joe a number of times in Manhattan, and they'd always told me to look them up if I was ever in Chicago. It struck me to do it one night. I called them up and in a few days I was in Chicago. I found them just as I'd expected, throwing out a lot of dark hints about a swell girl who was staying with them. I went and it was my first—Florence Hilton was the name. I took a terrible tumble, and in a couple of weeks we were engaged."

"I kept straight out the business in Chicago, and finally I remember now that it was your own suggestion—we were married right away, before we left town, and you came back as Mrs. Neil Packard!"

"Joyce had had hell-spellbound by Neil's recital. It was all so queer and unreal, and she felt her head swimming by the strangeness of it. 'Didn't you ask me anything about who I was, and all that, when you asked to marry me? How did I act? Was I like the Frills I've heard about, or more like Joyce?'"

"Well, you see, everyone treated you with kid gloves, so to speak, about this accident," said Neil. "It was understood that you'd had a great trip. Haven't I been too careless, too treacherous generally, that the Frills you married?"

"Frills? Frills, all right, and you had me guessing, too. But of course Frills wasn't wild and reckless when I married her—you say, I don't say so, I did marry her!"

"That's what I've got to find out, Neil. It's been driving me nearly crazy, and now at last I've had the chance to tell the truth, as far as I know it. Will you tell me, Neil, how you met Frills and all that?"

"Why, at Joe and Maisie Turner's, of course! Don't you really remember, Frills—er, I mean Joyce? Gosh, this gets my goat, I feel as though we'd all gone absolutely nuts!"

"I felt that way when I first woke up and found myself Mrs. Packard," she said gently, "but I've lived with the idea so long that I've gotten a bit used to it. Tell me about the Turners."

CONN'S STORE

GROCERY SPECIALS for the week-end
Friday and Saturday, Sept. 1 and 2

CORN FLAKES special 3 boxes for 25¢
CLASSIC CREAM, reg. 10¢ (1 lb) to 11¢ for 25¢
special 3 lbs for 25¢
TOILET SOAP SPECIAL 15 rolls for 40¢
EXTRACTS, any flavor, lemon, raspberry, etc., 4 oz. bottle 25¢; 2 oz. bottle 15¢
This tea substituted for a lb. but we have a few pounds left in the old price. Brandy Tea per lb. 25¢
COFFEE, Big 4 brand, vacuum pack, also a few left at a very low price. special, per lb. 25¢

SOAP, P & G, Royal Crown or White Knight, a few boxes left at 11¢ for 25¢
TOILET SOAP, large box - 3 for only 25¢
SOAP CHIPS SPECIAL 2 lbs. for 25¢
SCRUBBERS, school supply, set of pencil, special, per lb. 25¢
your last chance at a very low price!
LUX, per package 10¢
special, 2 packages for 25¢
CHIPPED OYSTERS, special, per lb. 25¢
SHELLED WALNUTS, fresh stock special, per lb. 25¢
COCAINATE, shredded and sweetened, fresh special, per lb. 25¢
APPLES, large size 25¢
ORANGES, large size 25¢
SCRUBBERS, school supply, set of pencil, special, per lb. 25¢
LARGE PENCIL SCRUBBERS, reg. 10¢ special, each 5¢
PENCILS, per dozen 25¢; ERASERS, large size, reg. 10¢ for 5¢
INK, FRUIT, 10¢ size special, 3 for 25¢

Free Delivery LOUIS CONN phase 7

a great shock, and that you mustn't be pressed. The doctor kept saying just leave her alone and she'll come around all right. All this mystery was very exciting, you understand—we all got a great kick out of it... I remember I wanted to ask you a lot of things when we were first engaged, but you said to me, 'Neil, you've got to trust me. There are some things I can't tell you, and I mustn't ask me about who I am and all that. There's nothing I'm ashamed of, and some day I expect I'll tell you all there is to tell.' I always thought over Neil's face. 'I always thought you would tell me, but you never did...'

Joyce watched him excitedly. The strange story gripped them, so that realities were seen through a haze. "Oh, Neil, I think I see it all now, don't you? Frills just couldn't remember back! She was trying to remember all the time, and she couldn't! It must have been awful for her, mustn't it? When did she change, when did she get reckless and wild?"

"It comes that came gradually," Neil answered, with puckered brow, "I can't remember any special time when it began. First, she was a little more than I liked; that really worried me a lot. Then it seemed as if she couldn't do stunts recklessly enough, as if she were almost trying to kill herself! She drove her car at breakneck speed, and got the wildest horses she could find to ride! And then there was Malinda..."

Joyce made a quick movement. "Yes," she said softly, "don't go into that, Neil, I know; and I'll never forget it..."

"But—but—Joyce, you are Frills!"

"It was Robert Ainsworth speaking, and Joyce and Neil turned to him with a start. In their absorption in piecing together the mystery of Frills, they had almost forgotten that he was there.

(continued next week)

Honest Walter
Customer "magnificently." "How is the hash made, waiter?"
Walter: "Mashed, sir? Why, hash isn't made; it accum

WANT ADS

Charge for want ads is made at the rate of 20 cents a word.

Was a Tenderfoot

"Believe me, mum," said a tramp, "the notes of these alone I've written; so you think that if I happened to tread on a penny, which I never do, worse luck, I could tell if it was heads or tails."

STRAYED, on the premises of Stone Roberts, N.W. quarter of Sec. 2, Twp. 26, Rgs. 17, two miles south and 2 miles east of Lathrop. Brown gelding, roached mane, star on forehead, branded OR on right shoulder. Buckskin mare, roached mane, white face, two white hind feet; heavy in foil; no brand. Bay gelding, strip on face, two white hind feet, no brand. All are aged work horses.

THE PICTURES

"The Good Companions" is the feature film which will show at the Orpheum Theatre Friday and Saturday this week, Sept. 1 and 2. It is looked for next week.

The human appeal of J. B. Priestley's story of "The Good Companions" is tremendous. The novel won instant popularity. The play repeated the success of the book, and now comes the magnificent Gaumont-British picture which contains the human qualities of both the play and the book.

The musical numbers introduced include "Three Wishes," "Let Me Give My Heart to You," and "Lucky for Me," all of which are effectively put over by Jessie Matthews in her role of Susan Dean, the talented singing and dancing comedienne of the "Dinky Door" concert party.

The reason the story of "The Good Companions" is so fascinating is that the lives of these people might very well be our own. One is able to share their ambivalence, joys, and trials. The call of the open road is present in every human heart but few have the courage to leave the care of home and depart in search of adventure and romance that always lies beyond. Priestley's story tells of a group of people who had the courage to seek and find their hearts' desire.

Clark Gable and Norma Shearer star in "Strange Interlude" Friday and Saturday next week.

CARD OF THANKS

I wish to thank the many friends of Bassano and district who for kindness to me during my illness in the Bassano Hospital. Their beautiful flowers and other gifts were greatly appreciated.

Mrs. Robt. S. Wicht.

CARD OF THANKS

I wish to express my sincere thanks to the C. P. R. employees and other friends for their gifts and help in my bereavement.

Geo. McNeil.

Printing

LETTERHEADS
ENVELOPES
STATEMENTS
LOOSE LEAF FORMS
PROGRAMS
TICKETS
POSTERS
HAND BILLS
BIRTH ANNOUNCEMENTS

Remember, we can fill all your requirements in the line of printing.

The Bassano Mail

Big Fish—Happy Fisherman

Hook a 36 pound musky for yourself like this one and their sympathies with J. A. Gibson of Toronto who fought for five and a half hours near French River Hungate Camp 216 miles north of Toronto, to land it. It is the seventh musky to be caught near the camp by guests this season and was caught on Friday, July 21st. So fishermen's luck was in a complication of opinion. The scene took place late in the afternoon right in front of the outlying camp dock in full view of the fishing party, and started five in order to see the finish, forgetting dinner and later celebrating the latest arrival in the bungalow camp annual in the seventh musky to be caught near the camp by guests this season and was caught on Friday, July 21st. So fishermen's luck was in a complication of opinion. The scene took place

LOCAL NOTES

There will be no church service at Knox Church next Sunday. The Sunday school will be held at the usual hour of 11 a.m.

A party of Calgary Board of Trade members passed through Bassano Wednesday morning, travelling by bus to Brooks where they visited the irrigation headquarters, experimental farm, and other points of interest.

The Women's Institute will meet at the home of Mrs. T. Ingensberg next Tuesday afternoon.

Geo. Murdoch left last Thursday for Revelstoke, B. C. where she will visit with friends.

Mr. and Mrs. McElbeth and family moved up from Brooks last Monday. They have rented the P. Ubertino house, recently vacated by Mr. and Mrs. H. Phillips, who have moved to the remodelled house next door. Mr. McElbeth is first crick operator at the C. P. R. station. He is a seasoned crick, and will be welcomed by the local crick club when they get going next winter.

Miss Bonnie Johnson is visiting in Bassano with Miss Margaret Bell. Rev. P. C. McCree left by motor last Monday for his new location in Meekwood.

The British American Oil Co. Ltd. are busy installing a new storage tank at their plant here, this being one of 80 which they are erecting in southern Alberta to handle a new brand of gasoline.

Austin Ford, Harry Holmes, and Jim McDonald went to Calgary Sunday afternoon, returning Monday with Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Ford.

Mrs. A. G. Scott and George returned home Monday after a vacation at Jasper Park.

Miss Jessie Hawthorn left Thursday this week to spend a vacation motoring to Seattle, Vancouver, and other points.

Mrs. P. C. McCree and children went to Crossfield last week where they planned to spend a few days before going to their new home in Meekwood.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Proctor (nee Miss Sally Holt) spent the week-end with Mr. and Mrs. Chas. L. White. They were accompanied by Miss Margaret Root.

Mr. and Mrs. J. N. Cawsey and children are spending a vacation in northern and central Alberta.

Mr. and Mrs. "Scotty" Clark, of Medicine Hat, are visiting in Bassano with Mrs. Clark's parents, Mr. and Mrs. T. H. Hyater.

Mr. and Mrs. A. Meucci and Mrs. H. T. Johnson motored to Tabor last Sunday for a visit with Mrs. Meucci's sister, Mrs. Schaffer, the former Miss Ruby Morrison.

Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Playfair and family motored to Calgary Thursday.

Men's Harvest Specials

Prices have advanced 15 to 25 per cent on the goods listed here, but we offer them at even less than the old marked prices.

Men's Smoke Elk Work Shoes

Quality, Bismar's Best Everyday Shoe. Solid smoke elk uppers; solid leather No. 1 soles, strongly stitched and nailed. Today's price $4.85.

our special $3.75 a pr.

Greb Quality Work Shoes

For men, work shoes of excellent quality, in black or chocolate, with toecap or plain toe; solid leather uppers and soles; strongly stitched throughout. Greb shoes are guaranteed to give long wear. Today's value $4.35.

our special $3.50 a pr.

Men's Range Rider Pant Overalls

One of the best; made from heavy blue guaranteed 9 oz. denim; roomy cut, triple stitched throughout. Today's value $2.25.

our special $1.89 a pr.

Men's Heavy Wool Sox

Excellent quality, heavy army grey. Today's value 40c a pair.

our special, 30c a pr.

Men's Work Gloves

Best making, only in stock, offered at the old prices.

Deerskin $1.50 a pr.

Cream Horse 95c a pr.

Moosehide 75c a pr.

Peccary Suede 50c a pr.

LADIES' WEAR HARVEST TIME SPECIALS

Wabasso Meshcloth

For dresses, etc. Will wear and wash well. Six good colors; reg. 35c;

special, 27c a yard

Plain Broadcloth

Wabasso quality, in 15 good colors; 36 inches wide;

special, 17c a yard

Wabasso Floral Check and Spot Broadcloth

Best quality, finely finished, guaranteed fast to wash and sun. Large selection of patterns for ladies and children's dresses, etc. 36 inches wide; reg. 35c;

special, 29c a yard

Special on Ladies' Shoes

The latest Swager Pump, T Strap and Tie, in Black Patent, Kid, and Calf. All the famed "Pricilla" quality; reg. $5.50;

special, $2.85 a pair

Girls' School Shoes

Good looking, strong and long wearing; black calf one strap; sizes and half sizes 10 to 25.

special, $1.95 a pair

Girls' Pullovers

Warren Knit; fine pure cotton wool; colors royal, beige, green. Smart for school wear;

special, $1.59

Ladies' Pure Silk Thread Mesh Hose

Extra fine quality, in good colors. These are an excellent buy; reg. $1.00 a pair;

special, 69c a pair

GROCERY SPECIALS

Good values for Saturday, Sept. 2nd

A. G. FLOUR, none better, 96 lb sack $2.85

A. G. PASTRY FLOUR, 6 lb sack 23c

A. G. SODAS, wooden box, 35c

BAKING POWDER, Tuxedo, 2 1/2 lb box 50c

MILK, Pacific, 2 tins 23c

CEREAL SPECIAL, 1 pkg. Corn Flakes, 1 pkg. Shredded Wheat, 1 pkg. Quaker Crackers, 1 pkg. Puffed Wheat, all for 49c

CANNED FRUIT SPECIAL, 1 tin Apricots, 1 tin Royal Anne Cherries, 1 tin Peas, all choice quality, all for 51c

PLUM JAM, Hamsterly Farm, 4 lb tin 49c

PORK and BEANS, Campbell's, with tomato sauce 3 tins 27c

ROLLED OATS, Robin Hood, non-premium, per pkt. 21c

HONEY, pure, 5 lb tin 63c

BEANS, hand picked, Ontario, White Navy 10 lbs 46c

MACARONI or SPAGHETTI, 5 lb box 37c

JELLY POWDERS, all flavors; 6 pkts. 29c

SALMON, fancy pink, Sunflower brand, 1 lb tin 2 for 27c

CHEESE, Skim Milk, 2 lb box 33c

FLY COILS, Aeronox, best made, boxes of 50, per box 89c

TOILET TISSUE, A. G. brand, 6 rolls 23c

Try our A. G. TEAS and COFFEES None Better. No advance in price.

Grocery Values

PLAIN WHITE CUPS with SAUCERS per doz. 89c

PLAIN WHITE CUPS only, per dozen 55c

CLOVER LEAF CUPS with SAUCERS per dozen $1.15

CLOVER LEAF CUPS only, per dozen 65c

FANCY JAP TEA SETS, 23 pieces per set $1.79

(only 6 sets to sell at this price.)

TUMBLERS, heavy glass for service per doz. 89c

T e a

The tea market has advanced, but we are protected, and are selling at the old price.

Our A. G. ECONOMY BROKEN ORANGE PEKOE TEA is good value at 39c a lb 3 lbs for $1.15

Coffee

We are heavy buyers of bulk coffee and have recently made some good contracts in the market.

A. G. ECONOMY BLEND, per lb 33c; 3 lbs. 95c

A. G. PRAIRIE BLEND, per lb 25c

Freshly ground or in the bean, as you wish.

Special low prices on 100 lb sacks.

Cheese

We specialize in Ontario Royal Oxford. This is real cheese, and very tasty.

Pickling and Preserving

Pickling season is now on, and we have a complete stock of PICKLING VINEGARS viz.: White Wine, Malt, Cider.

Also Pickling Spice, Root Ginger, Stick Chamom, Whole Cloves, All Spice, Bay Leaves, Whole Mustard, Celery Seed, Fennel, etc.

Also a large range of Jar Fittings, Sealers, Gem and Perfect Seal Rings and Tops, Wide and Narrow Mouth Mason Lids and Caps, Ball Mason Caps and Economy Tops.

Preserving Fruit

Our latest information is that PEACHES and PRUNES will be at their best in about a week or ten days' time.

We will be pleased to have your orders.

Extra Special! ANNUAL BLANKET SALE

Flannelette Blankets

Extra large size Flannelette Blankets, pink or blue borders; No. 1 quality; size 12 x 4; cash price - $2.49 a pair

Golden Fleece

Closely woven, 30 x 60 inch blanket, from Bonnie Dean; size 88 x 64; weight about 7 lbs. special - $1.075 a pair

Point Blanket

Pure wool, 3 point scarf. This blanket will give years of use. special - $1.075 a pair

Baby Blankets

Pink and blue crib blanket; bunny pattern; price - 75c

Grey Wool Blanket

A six pound all wool, very useful blanket; price - $4.75

Bed Sheets

Ready to use hemmed sheets; firm even thread; extra large, double bed size; special - $1.50 each

Pillow Cases

Hemstitched, 11 study, pure white Wabasso cotton; firm even weave; price - 45c each

GROCERIES

FRUIT SPECIAL, 1 tin heavy syrup Raspberries, 1 tin Red Plums, 1 tin Pineapple, 1 tin Royal Anne Cherries, all for 69c

OLIVES, quart jar, plain and stuffed; combination pack - 39c

KIPPERED SNACKS, very tasty, 3 tins for 25c

NASH Delicious COFFEE, per tin 49c

COFFEE, Star Special, 4 lbs. for $1.00

TEA, our special Broken Orange Pekoe, per lb. 50c

PANCAKE FLOUR, ready to use 3 lbs. 25c

JAM, Pure Plum, per tin 50c

SALMON, Red Sockeye, special 1 lb tin 29c

ARROWROOT DISCUTS, St. Vincent Baby Health, per pkg. 35c

CAMPBELL'S SOUP, tomato, 3 tins 39c

FRUITS AND VEGETABLES

ORANGES, sweet and juicy, 3 doz. for $1.00

BANANAS, 2 lbs. 25c

PEARS, per doz. 25c

APRICOTS, per basket 50c

PLUMS, per basket 50c

LARGE CANTELOUPE 15c

WASHINGTON RIPE TOMATOES, per bkt. 30c

Lettuce, Celery

JAMES JOHNSTON
The Quality Store

McKEE'S STORES

"Always at Your Service"

Phone 9